

2020

PRESS BOOK

“A staple of the New York film community.”

— Jude Dry, *IndieWire

“This year's lineup, accessible all across America, addresses some of the most pressing issues of our time.”

— IndieWire

“All the year's best documentaries in one place... DOC NYC is a major touchstone for cinematic nonfiction each year, collecting not just some of the most acclaimed documentaries that have already come out, but also festival favorites that still have yet to get a release.”

— Dan Schindel, *Hyperallergic

“The largest documentary film festival in the country, DOC NYC is quickly becoming the most prestigious presenter of world class features and shorts.”

— Bill Meyer, *Hollywood Progressive

“An astonishing range of films... The hundred features streaming [cover] a stunning range of subjects.”

— Howie Movshovitz, *KUNC (NPR) Radio

“One of the most reliable barometers for awards season... [The Short List is] a consistently accurate predictor of the increasingly competitive Oscar race for Best Documentary Feature.”

— Pat Mullen, *POV Magazine

“A particularly strong year at the festival.”

— Amber Wilkinson, *Eye For Film

“For fans of non-fiction filmmaking, one of the major stops on the fall festival circuit is the annual DOC NYC Festival”

— Shane Slater, *Awards Radar

“Showcases the best in nonfiction films... A plethora of fantastic choices shedding light on the arts, race, history, politics, LGBTQ issues and much more!”

— Nadine Matthews, *Amsterdam News

“I am happy as the pig in the proverbial pen of excrement at DOC NYC this year... some terrific films.”

— David Poland, *Movie City News

“One of the better slates in recent memory.”

— Josh Brunsting, *Criterion Cast

“DOC NYC has switched to a virtual paradigm this year, but the quality of nonfiction films coming out of this celebration of the factual is still wondrous... There are so many great offerings this year, and it's nearly impossible to catch them all.”

— Eric Althoff, *Screen Comment

“An easy way to catch up on some of 2020’s top films... It’s also a chance to be among the first to view a world premiere, and the overall choices are overwhelming.”

— Kent Turner, *Film-Forward

“DOC NYC may be America’s biggest documentary film festival, but its quality happily matches its quantity. Programmers have put together a collection of thoughtful films featuring intriguing profiles, singular situations, and widely varying styles.”

— Caroline Ely, *Film-Forward

“If you’re based in the US and are interested in Latin American cinema, you’ll be spoiled for choice at this year’s online DOC NYC.”

— Sarah Jacobs, *Sounds and Colours

“One of the world’s leading documentary festivals... [2020] continues the festival’s tradition of offering an outstanding variety of feature films and short films.”

— Carla Hay, *Culture Mix

“As always, the selection comprises a rich array of films.”

— Kevin Filipski, *Film Festival Traveler

“Covid may have stopped the in person screenings but it hasn't stopped the truly great DOC NYC... All hail the true life goodness they have programmed... While I could talk about the history of the fest or how it gets better and better each year, this year I simply want to take a moment to say that where other virtual fests have cut back or have leaned too heavily on other fests for their material, DOC NYC has put together a selection of films that give no quarter.... BRAVO for actually programming a festival that honestly and truly is what the fest would have been without Covid.”

— Steve Kopian, *Unseen Films

“Circumstances didn’t stop organizers from bringing some excellent nonfiction cinema to viewers across the country.”

— Sean Boelman, *Disappointment Media

“[DOC NYC] has an incredible line-up of films, something for everyone’s taste.”

— Trina Boice, *Movie Review Mom
